- Provide Stewardship plans for 2008 by February-2008 (CLT).
- Provide training reports to CLTanzania, Peter Mills (all participants).
- Approach all stakeholders, including government to form partnerships (CLT).

CONCLUSION

This was an excellent opportunity for CropLife Tanzania to learn to appreciate what is involved in arranging training and to understand fully the requirements for any training. It was also an opportunity for CropLife Tanzania to appreciate the need to form partnerships. I trust that Master Trainers and CropLife Tanzania will work together in future for all training programmes and plans and together in forming alliances with potential partners.

The formation of partnerships is now a major priority for CropLife Tanzania for 2008.

Thanks to CropLife Tanzania, and especially to Master Trainers for their tremendous efforts in difficult conditions.

Preparation on site begins with preparing the venue.

Dr. Joyce Daffa provided very valuable input, including introductory discussions, two excellent lessons, leading discussions and general organisation.

The industry participants wrote a test, which was marked by Master Trainers. These tests are used to ascertain whether the participants received certificates, and also to check whether appropriate learning took place, by comparing pre- and post-test scores of participants.

The Technical Training for industry personnel was closed by Cosmas Matanda, Chairman of CropLife Tanzania, seen here addressing the participants, with Paul Antapa of Tanzania Breweries (one of the Master Trainers) seated next to him.

The group of participants, Master Trainers and CropLife Tanzania personnel pose after the Technical Training course for industry staff.
