CONCLUSION

A very responsive group! This group enjoyed the training thoroughly and there was great appreciation for the course. From comments on evaluation forms, they have all learned a lot and are motivated to put this all into practice. Therefore, cascade training using partners should now be the major priority and effort from CropLife Syria.

Greatly appreciate the efforts of Elias Salhani and Ruba Bishara from CropLife Syria and the Debanne Group, as well as all the staff at the training centre, and facilitation assistants, Maher and Nidal, who all made this a very successful training course.

Peter Mills

03-September-2007

The training was opened and closed by Ja'far Ghussain, Head of Pesticides Department, MoA, Mr. Yacoub Al-Maher, Director of Training and Qualifications Directorate, Elias Salhani, CropLife Syria and Peter Mills, CropLife Africa Middle East.

Kamil Ghandour gave an excellent lesson, using models, diagrams and other training tools, on construction of a pesticide store.

Words of thanks from participants and a colourful celebration with officials and participants, at the end of training.

Certificates, professionally protected in the training centre's folders, were handed to all twelve participants, and two facilitation assistants.

Twelve trainers received their certificates from Ja'far Ghussain, Head of Pesticides Department, MoA, Mr. Yacoub Al-Maher, Director of Training and Qualification Directorate, Ministry of Agriculture and Elias Salhani, President of CropLife Syria.

Both Nidal Assaed and Mohammad Maher Al-Khaznawi provided invaluable facilitation assistance throughout the course.
